Good catch Steve. I recall hearing them discuss how the tanks are being dismantled but then it didn't seem like the photos of the tanks were changing. Just too much going on to question it.

Tim, sorry, since I am working at night, I usually don't get to review and comment on the draft report...

In the conclusions part, "...namely that six of the tanks in the farm are in the process of being removed or collapsed...." There is no removal activities of the tank taking place yet... they are either still standing or collapsed... ASPECT may have observed people in the tank farm, but they are only checking pipes, connecting pipes for draining of tanks, or other response work...

Thanks for all ya'll are doing...

With Regards, Steve
